Let it be known that the little things count.
No matter how high our troubles may mount,
It's the little things that really matter--
The Gay "hellos," the friendly chatter,
The Hustling and bustling of one and all,
The Slamming of lockers throughout the hall.
All these little things matter so much, oh, yes
For as you can see, they make G.H.S.

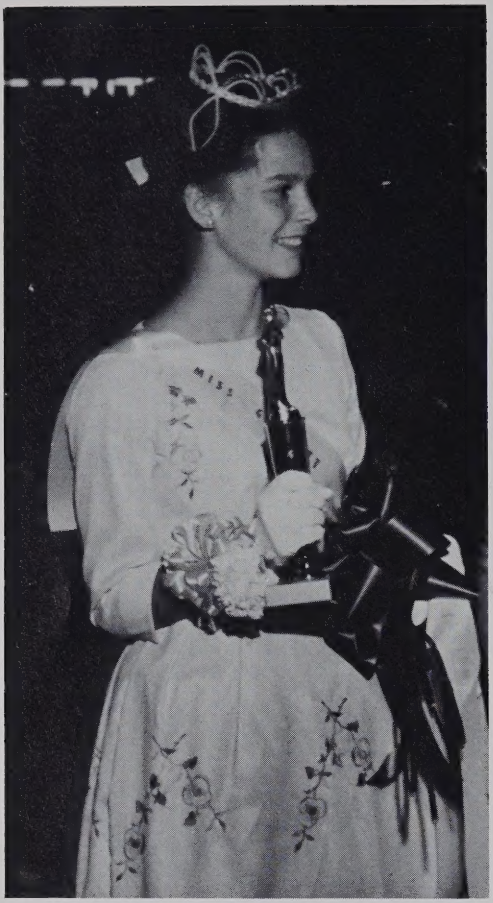
Let Us Be Known

AS PEOPLE

for we want to be known as outstanding people as we strive to reach our goals. We take great pride in Garrett High School and in the students who make the school important. All of the students of GHS, whether experienced seniors or excited seventh graders, are a part of the hustling and bustling of the halls, the spirit that backs the Railroaders, the extracurricular activities, and the hard work that all of us face. Garrett High can be very proud of its students for they make our school known to others.

Denny Feagler and Jim Miller look for something sweet to eat at the newly installed candy machine.

Helping with the elementary students is quite a new experience for senior Tom Engle.



Janice Casey is aglow as she holds her trophy after being chosen Miss Garrett during Sidewalk Days in August.

G

Summer Activities End, School Begins

Senior John Moats laughs along with Steve Smith who was a guest of the National Honor Society and spoke at a high school convocation.

Making plans for the launching of the Magazine Drive are co-chairmen Tom Stebing and Cindy Strobel.

As summer ended and school once again commenced, Garrett was mixed with the faces of the old and the new. The summer full of the activities of workshops, fun, and vacations led into the early months of the school year. The Auburn Fair, the Magazine Drive, the Snake Dance, and the football games, all added up to begin the year off right.

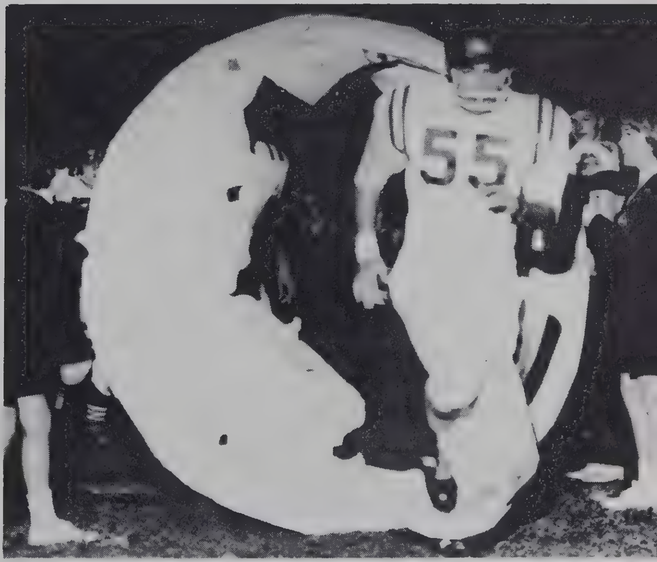
GARRETT KEYSER BUTLER SCHOOL

The bus provides transportation to and from school for many students.

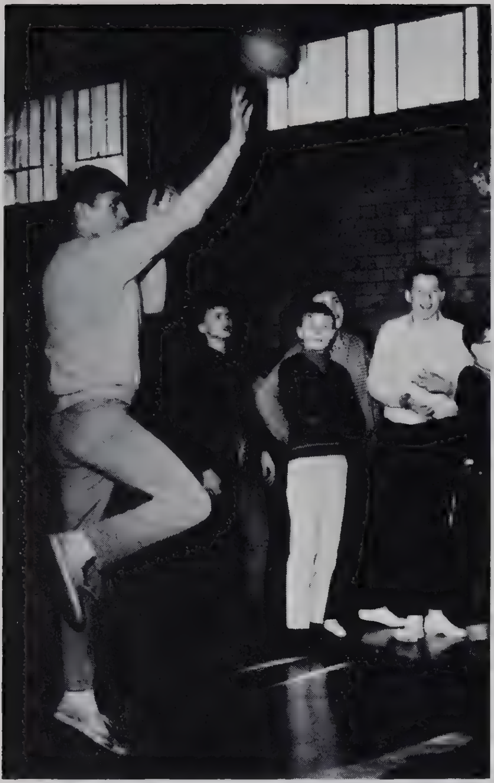
Fall Brings Fun

Spirit is created by the cheerleaders at the annual Snake Dance before the Auburn-Garrett football game.

Custodians, Getts and Wilmot, move the food for lunch from the Ober school to the high school.



Vic Hunter, captain of the football squad, breaks through the hoop and leads the team through the victory line as was a custom at all the home games this year.



Junior Bob Bond takes a shot at the basket during noon hour recreation as the other boys await their turn.

Seniors Phil Brechbill and Margery Myer over the pamphlets on the bulletin board.

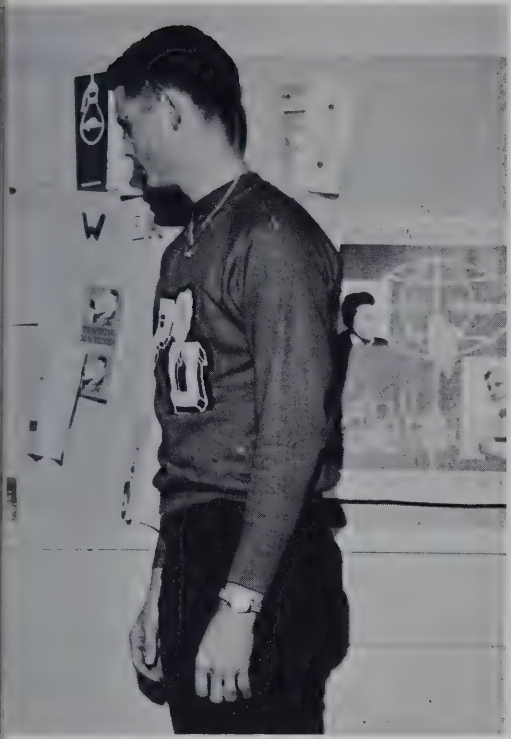
Students Benefited by

Although there was much extra activity going on, the school routine continued. Every day was heard the bells that sounded the end of the fifty-five minute classes, then the slamming of lockers and voices of students, and a bell sounding that class was once again in session.

The junior high section was limited to the two north halls and senior high students mainly had classes in the new addition.

Everyone enjoyed the half-hour break for lunch. After lunch recreation was provided in the auditorium, and candy and coke machines enabled students to purchase snacks during the day.

Junior high girls prepare for their daily meal as they walk through the lunch line.



Joe Newbauer, Randy Rupp, Larry Warstler, Bob Koehl, and Terry Harter catch up on the latest happenings about the school by reading the STREAMLINER.

Seniors Cerinda Goebel, Adele Smith, Lynda Ray, Mary Wiant, Carol Schurr, and Barb Lemper concentrate hard to memorize their lines for the class play.

The night of the Senior Play arrives and the make-up must be applied just right to cast members Linda Ervin and Carol Lung.

First Football Homecoming

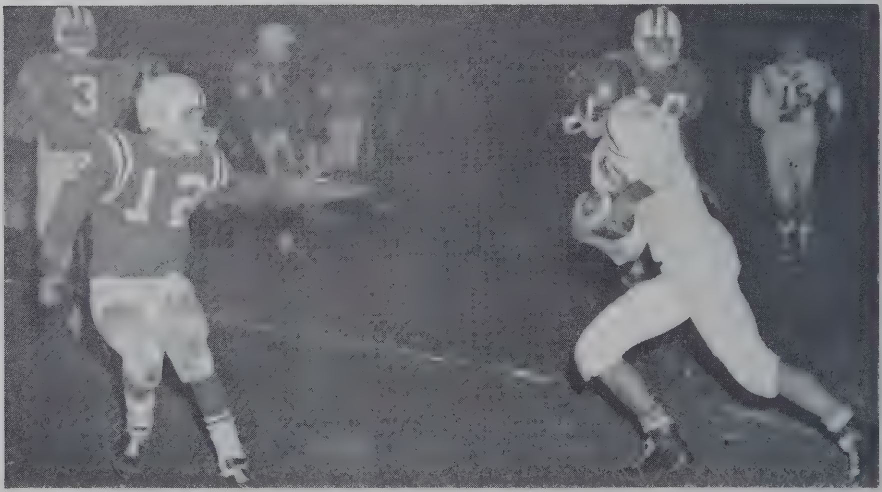
This year Homecoming fell during football season instead of basketball season. The Homecoming Queen was crowned at the half of the Garrett-Hicksville game.

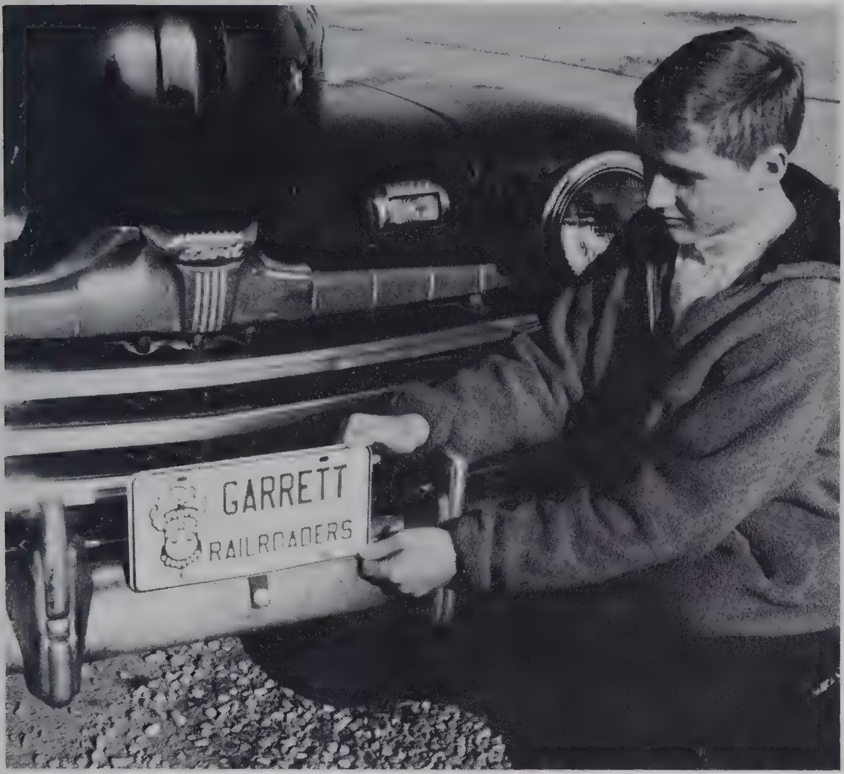
Four candidates, one from each class in high school, were chosen by the football team. These girls were voted upon by the students in grades nine through twelve.

Tonya Miller, a senior, reigned as queen. She was crowned by Vic Hunter, captain of the football squad, and she received a bouquet of yellow mums. Tonya and her court viewed the second half of the game from a beautifully decorated wagon at the end of the field.

Buzz Steward, Railroader junior, charges for another gain in the Homecoming game against Hicksville, Ohio.



Accompanies October Excitement



To back up the team with spirit junior Randy Tustison displays his new Railroader license plate.

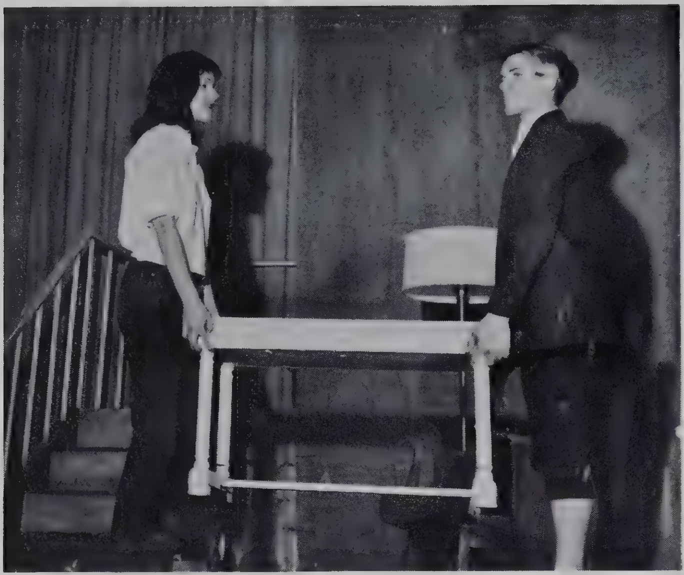
The first few months of school were a bundle of activity. Students were busy with school work, football games, class activities, and other projects. Warm weather continued into November, but the thermometer began to drop, and winter was setting in to stay.

However, the change in weather did not lessen the hustle and bustle of school life. Basketball started, and then Christmas vacation gave both students and teachers a rest. When school resumed, a new year had begun for everyone.

Sixty-five brought many months of hard work and fun. The week before semester exams was a week of much study. As the first semester ended there was a feeling of relief that the tests were finally over and there would be a new start.

A few moments for final touch ups are taken by Carole Roebel, Patty Tittle, and Karen Myers.

Evon Boleyn and Randy Rupp get a chance to talk at a locker between classes.



Betty, Bobbie Spicer, and Don MacDonald, Ken Yingling, have varied tasks in their new household.

Director Arthur Garrigus discusses some of the lines with student directors Connie Fetter and Don Tarlton.

"Onions in the Stew" was a delightful and different comedy about the MacDonalds, a family who moved from the city to an island and found many complications awaiting them.

Betty and Don MacDonald along with their two teenage daughters, Anne and Joan, find themselves midst a mass chaos when they all invite guests for the same weekend.

Yet, in the midst of the numerous difficulties and despair, the family finds a special value in the life they are cresting.

The two MacDonald teenage daughters, Joan, Janice Casey, and Anne, Annette Barnhart, oftentimes have difficulty seeing eye to eye.

Complete frustration is shown by Don MacDonald, Terry Harter, as Betty, Becky Haynes, tries to comfort him.

Connie Fetter and Don Tarlton, student directors for Saturday night's production, check posters for the play.

This year a new idea was put into use by Mr. Arthur Garrigus, director of the Senior Class Play. In order to cope with the large number of seniors who tried out for a part in "Onions in the Stew," a double cast was used which consisted of a total of fifty-four members. The first cast presented the play on Thursday, November 19, while the second cast presented theirs on November 21.

Complete confusion arrives as Howard, Barry McNamara, is chased into the MacDonald home by a swarm of bees.

The newest rage in clothing is shown by Derek Heinzerling, Larry Dillon, Tim Kolbe, and Bill Yoder as they appear in their madras shirts.

Frank Moody and Phil Heitz are seen in the always popular ski sweaters.

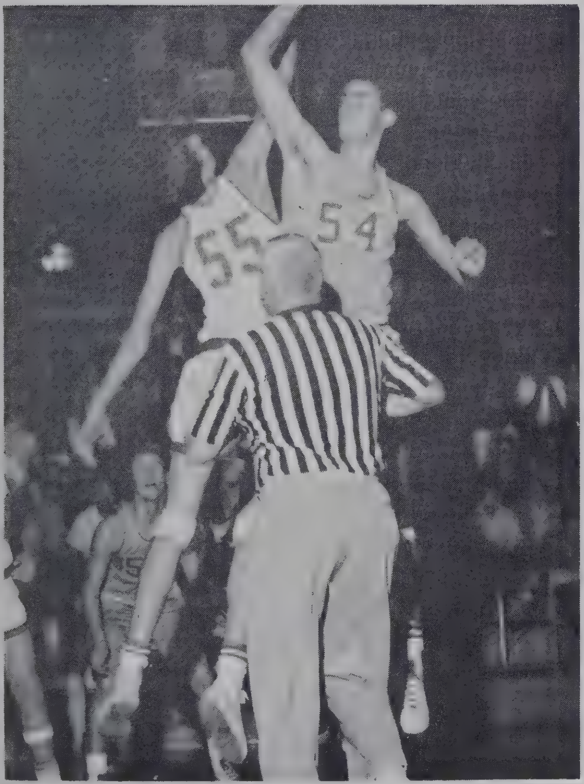
Madras Is Prominent in Fads and Fashions

Knee socks and loafers were very popular among the girls' fashions.

Girls from each class enjoy carrying the new shoulder bags as shown here by Annette Barnhart, Tina Lung, Becky Harter, and Ethel Finn.

Twirlers Marianne Myers, Pennie Murray, Claudia Miller, and Lynn Freeman perform the traditional Snake Dance at the Angola basketball game.

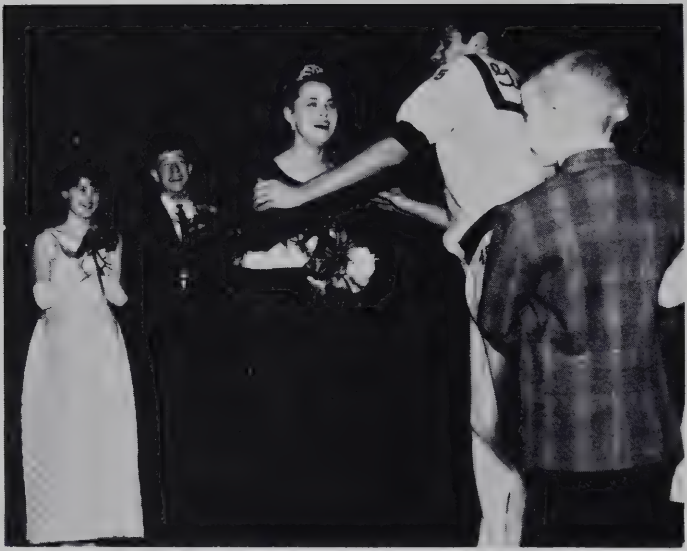
As Cold Winter Sets in



An unusual sight was to see Jim Heitz and Chuck Bavis opposing each other at the annual Basketball Clinic.

Co-chairmen Nancy Capin and Tom Stebing, junior class president Craig Gilliland, and Miss Crowe, junior advisor, look for ideas for a theme for the Junior-Senior Banquet.

Basketball Queen Crowning



Jo Ellen Moses, Basketball Queen for 1964-65 receives a congratulatory kiss from co-captain Steve Smith.

The 1964-65 Basketball Queen was crowned on January 29 during an impressive half-time ceromony at the Fremont-Garrett game.

The queen was chosen from five candidates who were all seniors. The reserve and varsity basketball players picked the five candidates and all students in grades nine through twelve were eligible to vote for their choice for queen.

Jo Ellen Moses captured the Basketball Queen title, and she received a crown and a dozen red roses from co-captains Steve Smith and Buzz Steward. After the ceremony the queen and her court sat among decorations of red and gold which carried out a valentine theme.

A happy smile appears on Jo Ellen's face after the crowning.

dds to Continuance of Events

Keeping the school in shape are our janitors who often go unnoticed.

The second semester continued to be a time of term papers and projects, basketball games and dances, and a great mixture of fun and work.

As tourney time appeared, all were hoping for the Railroaders to be the winning team. Much preparation was taken to boost them on as halls were decorated all over the school by each class.

To seventh graders, the school year was a completely new experience full of new and exciting adventures. But for the seniors, the year was quickly passing by and their experiences lay behind them in their years at G. H. S.

A special convocation speaker, Mr. Ede Pfeiffer, talks to students about his life under the communistic rule as a child.

As school resumed in September there appeared a mixture of old and new faces among the faculty. Under the leadership of Mr. French, principal, many changes were installed.

Mr. Pearson, formerly boys' guidance counselor, was made assistant principal, and Mr. Carson replaced him on the guidance staff.

To improve the appearance of the school, add comfort, and aid in the educational advancement of students and faculty, much new furniture and equipment was purchased.

The different areas of study were more closely organized this year. Department heads meet with their associates to provide an effective program in their various fields.

Freshman English students study the fundamentals of grammar.

English is undoubtedly the most valuable course a school can offer.

Realizing this, it is required that every student have four years of English. A student many choose from English grammar, literature, composition, drama, speech, or journalism.

Under a very able direction, the English staff completed plans for a new program, which went into effect this year. In this age of vital communications, students must and do have excellent training.

Journalism students Dean Steiman, Steve Lewis, Vickie Quinn, and Linda Ervin cut clippings for notebooks.

The Creative and Practical Mix

Creativity is the key word in both art and home economics.

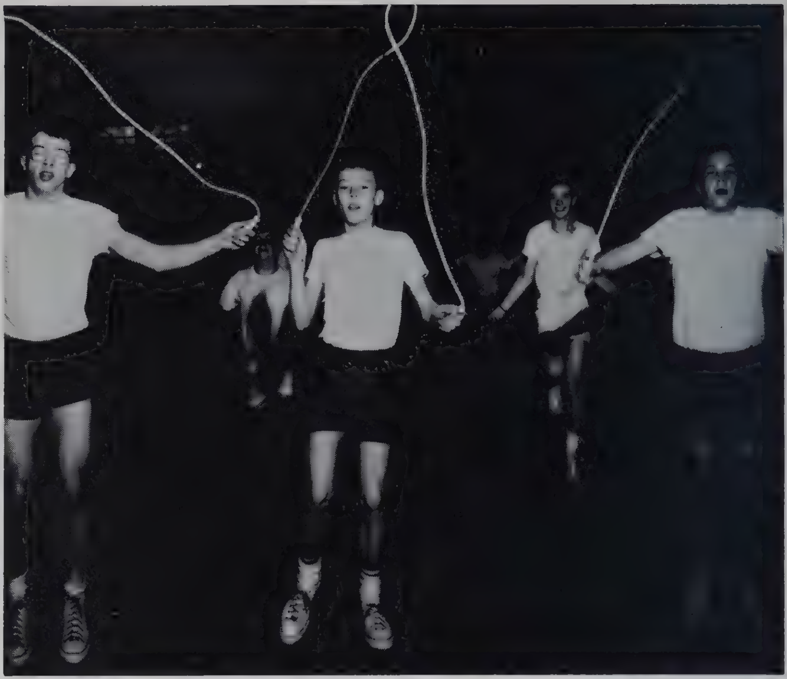
In the art program students are urged to express themselves as individuals as they draw, paint, or construct.

Students in home economics strive for perfection of practical homemaking techniques.

Home Ec. girls Paula Dembickie, Marilyn Newbauer, Linda Gaskill, and Marilyn Smith work in the new home economics kitchen.

Seventh graders Barb Tustison, David Nolan, and Danny Swonger work on an art project.

Advanced gym students build pyraminds in tumbling sessions.



Boys' gym classes jump rope to keep in shape.

Enjoyable and Practical

Rhythm, precision, and timing are the keys to the success of our Music Department.

From the first chords of our school song played at our first football game, to the final strains of "Pomp and Circumstance" at graduation, the band engages in one of its most successful seasons.

Local musicians won the admiration of the student body by fascinating performances at the District and State contests.

The band was again honored with an invitation to perform a half-time show at a professional basketball game at the War Memorial Coliseum in Fort Wayne.

The Streamliners, a precision dancing group, inaugurated at Garrett this year, delighted basketball fans with their half-time routines.

Again, this year, the twirlers entertained Garrett fans with a proficiency hard to master.

Performing during the half time at football and basketball games, were the high school twirlers: Claudia Miller, Marianne Myers - Drum Majorette, Tommie Kaeck, Lynn Freeman, Mickey Gillespie, and Jeanne Helbert.

Back row: Linda Parker, Annette Barnhart, Cindy Strobel, Terry Beber, Susie Byanski, Kathy Crimmins, Pollyann Van Zile, Judy Hyde, Patsy Eberhard, and LaDonna Ringler.

Beautiful melodies emit from the choir room this year. This year's choir is greatly improved over past choirs. They have delighted many audiences with their excellent productions.

A choir council with representatives from each class has been formed to decide policies of conduct. Through the efforts of the choir students have had many enjoyable moments.

Sophomore Ensemble: Rhonda Ballentine, Debbie Buckles, Linda Conkle, Kay Shoener, Becky Harter, Tina Wysong, Sandy Trainer, Debbie Hall, and Roxie Isenbarger.

Assisting in the library are: Gladys Ramey, Lynda Ray, Judy Crocker, Guyan Ramey, Jeanne Detrich, Linda Gaskill, Julia Brumbaugh, Debbie Hall, and Sandy Brumbaugh.

Returning from summer vacation, the student body noticed many changes. The service desk had been remodeled and the entire room took on a bright atmosphere.

During the summer over two-hundred volumns were added to the library and new books are being acquired regularly.

The student librarian system has been continued with volunteers assisting students and faculty members.

It has been arranged so that students assisting in the library may receive credits under certain conditions.

The library is an important tool for the student and keeping it up-to-date benefits everyone.

The library provides entertainment as well as study for Steve Yingling, Kathy Smith, and Rick DeLucenay.

Worker Keep Busy

Our custodian staff keeps the school spotless and warm during the winter months. Our bus drivers safely transport us to school, while the cooks are in the kitchen preparing the noon lunches. The clean-up job is carried on even after school is dismissed. Students seldom realize the many hours that are spent by the men and women behind the scenes.

Let Us Be Known

IN CLUBS

Becky Harter, taking part in the Latin Club initiation, recalls images of Roman gods and goddesses.

that deepen our understanding of ourselves and others, broaden our academic and vocational interests, widen our future visions, and aid in mental growth and maturity.

School organizations under the guidance of faculty sponsorship make our educational experience more practical and varied.

Through co-operative efforts we set goals and accomplish activities for which we are known.

In the annual fall ceremony, Blue Triangle pledges are initiated by the active membership.

Bob Koehl, secretary; Tom Stebing, vice-president; Terry Harter, president; and Mark Hamm, secretary, lead the Student Council in its many activities and projects.

To provide a liaison between the students, faculty, and administration in co-operation for the betterment of academic and athletic endeavors is the purpose of the Student Council under the sponsorship of Miss Lewis and Mr. French.

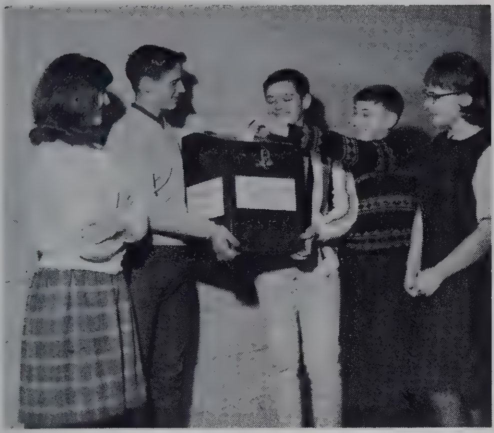
Several projects are sponsored annually by the Council. The magazine sale in the fall pays for convocations and all projects subject to the approval of the student body. The proceeds from a record hop go for the John F. Kennedy Scholarship given to one senior. The Council Capers Variety Show is presented in the spring by clubs and classes of the school.

The year is climaxed with the spring banquet for all the members.

Students' Voices Hear

Kenny Yingling, Cindy Stroebel, Tim Kolbe, and Sandy Gnagy were spokesmen for the senior class.

Representing the seventh grade are council members: Bob Bishop, Dan Yarde, David Perry, and Nancy McKee.



Student Council suggestion makers are Linda Ashenfelter, Gary Jarnagin, Wayne Roberts, Dennis Davis, and Vickie Lewis, freshman Student Council members.

hrough Student Council

Eighth grade Council members planning for a record hop are Chris Creager, Rex Carper, Donna Dove, Dale Neukom, Janet Hathaway, and Dave Gilliland.

Maxine Gravit, Christine Kolbe, Steve Mulligan, and Doug Opdyke relate the Student Council events to the junior class.

Planning the next meeting are the NHS officers Susan Jay, secretary; Vic Hunter, president; John Moats, vice-president; and Steve Mulligan, treasurer.

NHS Chooses Scholars

Bob Carpenter, Steve Mulligan, Alice Kelham, Dave Miller, Cathy Barcus, Craig Gilliland, Randy Tustison, and Doug Opdyke are the juniors elected to the National Honor Society.

Second semester president Chuck Bavis assists committee members Kathy Campbell and Maxine Gravit.

Impromtu speeches, guest speakers, and other public speaking activities occupied the time of Speech Club members. A committee wrote a new constitution for the club and a lively convention was held to nominate and elect officers. Mr. Garrigus and Mr. Harter sponsored the club.

Elected as officers of Speech Club were: Pollyann Van Zile, secretary; Terry Harter, parliamentarian; Ron Matthews, president; Chuck Bavis, vice-president; and Cindy Strobel, treasurer.

Thespians Promote Drama

Oral Skills Developed

Mr. Garrigus checks in Bob Snook's coat for him as Thespians raised funds through this service.

The purpose of the Thespian Society is to promote interest in high school dramatics. The members are chosen on the basis of participation in dramatics. An impressive initiation was held for new members in February. The all school production was their outstanding activity this year. The club is sponsored by Mr. Garrigus.

Serving Thespians were Dave Clark, recorder; Janice Casey, secretary; Clarence Van Buren, president; Judy Hyde, treasurer; and Cindy Strobel, treasurer.

Mr. Harter, Aeolian advisor, confers with editor-in-chief Susan Jay. Jo Ellen Moses, assistant editor, was not present.

Connie Fetter, business manager, is assisted by business staff members Judy Hyde and Marianne Sattison.

Through pictures and copy the Aeolian captures treasured memories of the school year.

Many hours were spent by the staff working on "dummy sheets," taking and cropping pictures, and writing copy for the Aeolian of 1965.

Junior understudies were chosen to help with this year's production. This enabled them to have background which will be useful to them in editing next year's book.

Eight pages were added to the Aeolian to take care of the new clubs, classes, and faces at GHS. A new feature of the yearbook was to move the senior index from the senior section to the back of the book.

Staff Acquires

Looking for ideas in earlier yearbooks are Susie Byanski and Becky Haynes, underclass editors, and Margery Myers and Gladys Ramey, senior editors.

Taking care of the sports coverage are John Harmon and Derek Heinzerling.

Faculty editors, Barb Lemper and Adele Smith, and organization editors, Waureen Smith and Janice Casey, compare the progress each has made.

Providing a valuable service for the STREAMLINER are Faith Hathaway, Judy Gaff, Sandy Terry, and Carol Lung.

Streamliner

Looking on with pleasure at the latest issue of the MAROON AND BLUE STREAMLINER are Mr. Bruck, Patsy Eberhard, and Mr. Newell.

Valuable Experience

The adage, "three heads are better than one," seems advantageous to Connie Leeper, feature editor; John Moats, sports editor; and Pollyann Van Zile, news editor.

Writing stories, making up pages, and meeting deadlines kept the MAROON AND BLUE STREAMLINER staff busy this year.

The beat system was used for the first time this year by the paper. Each reporter is assigned a "beat" and must report on the activities of that club for each issue.

In addition to the regular biweekly issues, special editions were printed for the Auburn-Garrett game and the tourneys. The outstanding special issue was the Christmas issue which was printed in red ink.

Vic Hunter, business manager, and Pat Fordeck, assistant news editor, laugh at one of the cartoons drawn by Craig Gilliland.

Y-Teen Girls Kathy Campbell, Cindy Lewis, and Vickie Quinn prepare Easter baskets to take to the Children's Orphanage.

Capable officers of Y-Teens are Alice Kelham, vice-president, and Dawn Fleet, president, in the front row. In the second row, Kay McKee, treasurer; Jo Ellen Moses, service chairman; and Bobbie Spicer, secretary. In the last row, Judy Gaff, devotional chairman; Cathy Barcus, song leader; Faith Hathaway, program chairman; and Nancy Capin, welfare chairman.

Hi-Y, Y-Teens Mi

The Y-Teens goal is service. That they accomplish this purpose was demonstrated through their main project this year. They planned an Easter Party for the children in the Allen County Orphanage. Enjoyed most by the children was an Easter Egg Hunt. Under the guidance of Mrs. Ish and Mrs. Lewis, guest speakers were brought in often.

Terry Beber, Adele Smith, and Judy Talley ponder over possible choices of pins for this year's members.

Hi-Y under the assistance of Mr. Don Steward and Mr. Robert Ewing has service at the top of its lists of duties. One of the top service projects of the year was painting rooms at the Garrett Community Hospital. Each year a scholarship is given to a senior Hi-Y member.

The club enjoyed several guest speakers including the superintendent of Schools and a representative from the Indiana State Police.

Service, Pleasure

One of the interesting programs Hi-Yers enjoyed was a presentation by guest speaker Mr. Puff, Superintendent of Schools.

Dick Pickard lends his assistance in the painting of rooms at the Garrett Community Hospital.

Boasting a large membership, the Latin Club achieved recognition on local, state, and national levels through various activities. In the fall they had an initiation for the new members.

With sights set on the National Convention in Los Angeles, the Club launched a massive moneymaking campaign. Selling Christmas cards and stationery, sponsoring several record hops, and providing an evening of entertainment at the Gala Theater were among the many Moneymaking projects undertaken by the Club this year.

The Club has become known in the state since two of its active members hold state offices. On the national level the Club achieved recognition as one of the top ten in the country. Many of the achievements of the Club are made possible through the guidance of Mrs. Elizabeth Love.

Climaxing the year for the Club is the annual Roman Banquet in the spring. The highlights of the banquet were the slave auction and a meal enjoyed in Roman style.

Representing Garrett High School as state officers are Terry Harter and Dawn Fleet.

Debbie Myers, vice-president; Ron Matthews, president; Peggy Ley, secretary; and Marianne Sattison, treasurer lead Business Club activities through the year.

The Business Club, under the leadership of Mr. Jay Newell, was formed to promote a better understanding of the business field. The money from the car wash held early in the fall was used to join the United Business Leaders of America, an organization in Northeastern Indiana. Enjoying the activities of the year the Club also took field trips and enjoyed guest speakers.

Two Clubs Learn Procedures

The Library Club, one of the newest clubs at Garrett High School, is under the leadership of Mrs. Sweeney. Linda Gaskill contributed much to the effective organization of the Club.

On October 15 the Club met in the school with district librarians for a convention and an open house.

Gaining valuable experience and library skills are Gladys Ramey, secretary-treasurer; Linda Gaskill, president; and Margery Myers, vice-president.

Guiding Junior Hi-Y activities are, back row, Jack Seigel, chaplain; Ed Myers, sergeant-at-arms; and Ed Talley, secretary. Also, providing leadership were, front row, Dave Clark, president, and Mitch Simpson, vice-president.

The Junior Hi-Y, consisting of freshman and sophomore boys, is under the leadership of Mr. Ed Mahnesmith.

Programs for the year included debates and discussions on world problems. Highlighting the year on January 16, was the annual semi-formal, "Rhapsody in Blue Velvet," with the Blue Triangle.

Kathy Beber, secretary; Paula Dembickie, treasurer; Peggy Ley, president;, and Mary Ann Placencia, vice-president, prepare for future FHA activities.

The Future Homemakers of America, under the direction of Mrs. Smith, is one of the newest clubs sponsored at Garrett High School. The Club's motto is the improvement of home economics and fellowship.

Last fall the officers attended a convention at Kendallville with other homemakers in the area. One activity was a contribution to the WOWO Penny Pitch. The Club also had cake sales during the lunch hour which proved very successful.

Preparing goodies for practice and consumption are Anne Kleeman and Paula Bateman.

Vicki Quinn, Diane Rowe, and Carol Schiffli are shown selling cookies for the FHA bake sale.

Practical Futures

The Future Farmers of America, under the sponsorship of Mr. Paul Bateman, strive to prepare and interest the rural youth in agriculture.

In November the Club attended the International Livestock Show in Chicago. This has become an annual field trip. At the DeKalb County Fair members exhibited projects and assisted officials in several ways.

To increase their funds the chapter sponsored many record hops and sold garden seed and candy.

The highlight of the year was the District Contest Meeting on February 9. The Club acted as host this year for the annual event. The contests entered by local members were Freshman Creed, Essay, Impromptu Speaking, and Talent.

In April the members participated in livestock and dairy judging in the county.

The highest honor in the Club is the Hoosier Farmer degree. The Club had three applicants for the award.

The year was climaxed with an initiation and awards earned during the year were given.

Ready to begin this meeting of the FFA are, Back row: Gary Boleyn, secretary; Joe Grogg, treasurer; Steve Johnson, sentinel; and Jerry Weller, reporter. Randy Bergdall, vice-president; Paul Smith, student advisor; and Phil Brechbill, president; prepare to call the meeting to order.

Exert Spirit

Miss Crowe assisted in the organization and leadership of the Girls' Pep Club. The club performed and entertained at many of the halftimes of basketball games. Much work was put into the spiral which was put on at the halftime of the Auburn, Columbia City and Ossian games.

Meetings were held every Thursday night before a ball game.

As a special project, the club sold license plates which promoted school spirit and made money for the club.

A victory line greeted the football players at each home game. Highlighting the activities of the Club were Football and Basketball Homecomings.

Unified, well organized, and colorful, the Girls' Pep Squad enliven the crowd and team at a typical basketball game.

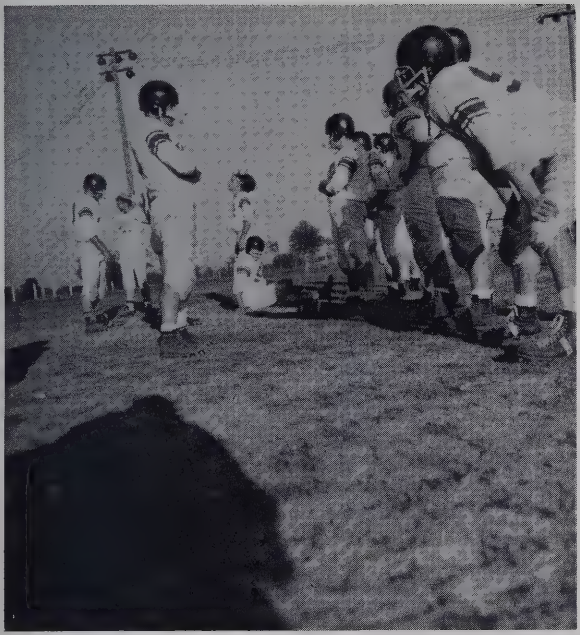
IN SPORTS



Railroaders learn fundamentals in early season practice.

through our attitudes, our abilities, and our sportsmanship. It is in these areas that an athlete strives for perfection, so truly these are areas wherein he should be recognized. In recognition we help the athlete attain some measure of perfection, and by so doing build his confidence and heighten his goals. Surely the goals he strives for should be made known.

to Winning Season

After a slow start the mighty Railroaders reeled off five straight victories before bowing to a strong Auburn eleven. Starting slow, the Railroaders picked up steam after dropping a close game to Elmhurst 19-12 and a rugged game to Decatur 13-0. With a fine core of seniors, a burly group of juniors and some strong, husky sophomores, the Railroaders bulldozed over five straight foes. Soundly rapping winless K'ville, Garrett moved on to Bluffton where they won a hard fought game. Angola was the next to fall followed by Concordia. Following these victories the Railroaders moved in for their Homecoming game, and what a Homecoming it was. The now steamrolling 'Roaders shellacked Hicksville 45-0. The roof fell in when the strong Red Devils of Auburn hit town and walked home with a 31-14 victory. However, don't be deceived by the score; it was anybody's ball game almost all the way. With a strong, swift nucleus, we are looking forward with pleasure to the '65-'66 campaign.

This gang of Railroaders of '65 will long be remembered for the great deeds they performed. First they had the best regular season Won-Lost record of any team in the history of the school, 19-1. Second, they successfully defended their Holiday Tourney title. Lastly, for the first time on record a team of Railroaders finished NO. 1 in the area ratings as well as NO. 1 in the final county standings. A fine season for a great bunch of guys.

Ron Kearns and Dave Clark await possible rebound on Mark Hamm's shot against Fremont.

A strong reserve team composed of mostly sophomores and a few juniors completed a tough schedule dropping only a few tight ball games. The starting five for the Handcars consisted usually of sophomores Denny Feagler, Mark Hamm, Ron Kearns, Steve Boice, and Dave Clark.

The reserve squad had several close games, but they romped over teams such as Prairie Heights, Auburn, Fremont, and Hamilton. In the Marion Tourney, Garrett defeated Kokomo in the first game 45-31. In a close final game, Marion won over the Handcars by only two points.

Coached by Ward Smith the reserves ended the season with a 13-9 won-lost record.

Heitz goes high for rebound and scores against Blazers.

Railroaders Lose to

For the second straight year the G-Men of Coach Ward Smith walked off with all the marbles at the K'ville Sectional. Garrett went to K'ville with the hope of meeting Waterloo. However, to get a crack at them the G-Men had to beat two toughies - Ligoner and Eastside, which they did quite handily. As showdown time approached many were worried but the great ones got an early lead and although the Wildcats stayed very close never did Garrett trail. These three great victories extended Garrett's consecutive game winning skein to 20 as well as honoring our school with its second straight Sectional championship.

A triumphant coach gets a ride to a cold shower.

Senior boys boost school spirit with motto: "As long as you keep winning we keep running."

Garrett's tall talented crew went to Fort Wayne with just one thing in mind--winning the Regional. Well, Adams Central found out that we meant business and Fort Wayne North thought for about a period and a half that we were going to keep our promise. However, some cold shooting from outside soon dropped us behind and although the team gave a gallant effort, they just couldn't get the lead back. North Side went on to the state finals, but missed being State Champs by seven points.

Congratulations Railroaders on a job Well Done!

for classes give us status. Through classes, we look forward to the future. The Jr. High students look forward to entering high school, the freshmen and sophomores look forward to becoming upperclassmen, and the juniors look forward to their last year in school. The seniors look back on all these feelings with fond memories. Lastly, through classes, we gain a position in the school world.

Let Him Be Remembered

And we came to the rose-covered resting place

Let Us Be Known

IN JUNIOR HIGH

Since the seventh and eighth graders now have their own hall, we don't see them as much as we once did. But we cannot forget the bustling anxious kids that are the future of G.H.S. Rushing from class to class, jumping to reach lockers, idolizing our famous Railroaders, they are the constant reminder of the enthusiastic high school student they will one day be.

Working with aluminum molds is eighth grader, Mike Sattison.

Seventh graders spent much time decorating their hall for the sectional tourney.

Junior High cheerleaders are Nancy McKee, Jane Porter, Janet Porter, and Carolyn Myers.

Now the day is over and done,
Gone are all the worries and fun,
Gone are the students rushing pell-mell,
Trying to beat the final bell.
Empty is the hall, but it seems to say,
"They'll all return another day."
And so they will, for though they're gone,
A part of their spirit lingers on.
